DR. JOHNSTON,

Physician of this celebrated Institution, has discovered the most Certain, Speedy, Pleasant and Effectual Remedy in the World for all

DISEASES OF IMPRUDENCE.

Weakness of the Back, or Limbs, Strictures, Affections of the Kidneys, or Bladder, Involuntary Discharges, Impotency, General Debility, Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Languor, Low Spirits, Confusion of Ideas, Palpitation of the heart, Timidity, Trembling, Dimness of Sight, or Giddiness, Disease of the Head, Throat, Nose or Skin, Affections of the Liver, Lungs, Stomach or Bowels—those terrible disorders arising from Solitary Habits of Youth—SECRET and solitary practices, more fatal to their victims, than the songs of the Syrens to the Mariners of Ulysses, blighting their most brilliant hopes, or anticipations, rendering marriage, &c., impossible.

YOUNG MEN

especially, who have become the Victims of Solitary Vice, that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of the most exalted talents and brilliant intellect, who might otherwise have entranced listening Senates with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to ecstacy the living lyre, may call with full confidence.

MARRIAGE.

Married persons, or Young Men contemplating marriage, aware of Physical Weakness (Loss of Procreative Power—Impotency,) Nervous Excitability, Palpitation, Organic Weakness, Nervous Debility, or any other disqualification, speedily relieved.

He who places himself under the care of Dr. J. may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidentially rely upon his skill as a physician.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS,

IMPOTENCY, LOSS OF POWER,

Immediately Cured, and Full Vigor Restored.

This distressing affection—which renders life miserable and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgences.—Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny, that the power of procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits, than by the prudent? Beside being deprived of the pleasures of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms of both body and mind arise. The system becomes deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions Weakened, Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritability, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Constitutional Debility, and Wasting of the Frame, Cough, Consumption, Decay and Death.

A CURE WARRANTED IN TWO DAYS.

Relief in Six Hours: No Mercury!

Persons Ruined by Ignorant, Trifling Pretenders, and their Deadly Poisons, should apply immediately.

DR. JOHNSTON,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London. Graduate of one of the most eminent Colleges in the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known; many troubled with ringing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, bashfulness, with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgences and solitary habits, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either business, study, society or marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by the early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

MENTALLY.—The fearful effects of the mind are much to be dreaded. Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil Forebodings, Aversion to Society, Self-Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.

Thousands of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale, nervous and emicated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of Consumption.

YOUNG MEN

who have injured themselves by a certain practice, indulged in when alone, a habit frequently learned from evil companions or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured, renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the pride of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and employments of life, by the consequence of deviating from the path of nature, and indulging in a certain secret habit. Such persons must, before contemplating reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without these, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, the prospect hourly darkens to the view, the mind becomes shadowed to despair, and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another is blighted with our own.

DISEASE OF IMPRUDENCE.

When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame or dread of discovery deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease make their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commiseration till death puts a period to his dreadful sufferings, by sending him to that undiscovered country, "from whence no traveler returns."

It is a melancholy fact, that thousands DIE victims to this terrible disease, through falling into the hands of Ignorant or Unskillful PRETENDERS, who by the use of that deadly Poison, Mercury, &c., destroy the constitution, and incapable of curing, keep the unhappy sufferer month after month taking their noxious or injurious compounds, and instead of being restored to a renewal of Life, Vigor and happiness, in despair leave him with ruined Health, to sign over his galling disappointment.

To such, therefore, Dr JOHNSTON pledges himself to preserve the most Inviolable Secrecy, and from his extensive practice and observations in the great Hospitals of Europe, and the first in this country, viz: England, France, Philadelphia and elsewhere, is enabled to offer the most Speedy, Certain and Effectual Remedy in the World for all diseases of Imprudence.

DR. JOHNSTON,

OFFICE, 7 SOUTH FREDERICK STREET,

BALTIMORE, MD.,

left hand side going from Baltimore street, a few doors from the corner. Fail not to observe the name and number.

☞No letters received unless postpaid and containing a stamp to be used on the reply. Persons writing should state age, and send a portion of advertisement describing symptoms.

There are so many Paltry, Designing and Worthless Impostors advertising themselves as Physicians, trifling with and ruining the health of all who unfortunately fall into their power, that Dr. Johnston deems it necessary to say especially to those unacquainted with his reputation, that his Credentials or Diplomas always hang in his office.

ENDORSEMENT OF THE PRESS.

The many thousands cured at this establishment, year after year, and the numerous Surgical Operations performed by Dr. Johnston witnessed by the representatives of the press and many other persons, notices of which have appeared again and again before the public, besides his standing as a gentleman of character and responsibility, is a sufficient guarantee to the afflicted.

SKIN DISEASES SPEEDILY CURED.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

FOR ALL THE PUPOSES OF A LAXATIVE MEDICINE.

Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use, in every country and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill. The obvious reason is, that it is more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them; those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood, and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterious drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Minute directions are given in the wrapper on the box, for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For DYSPEPSIA or INDIGESTION, LISTLESSNESS, LANGUOR and LOSS OF APPETITE, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For LIVER COMPLAINT and its various symptoms, BILIOUS HEADACHE, SICK HEADACHE, JAUNDICE or GREEN SICKNESS, BILIOUS COLIC and BILIOUS FEVERS, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For DYSENTERY or DIARRHOEA, but one mild dose is generally required.

For RHEUMATISM, GOUT, GRAVEL, PALPITATION OF THE HEART, PAIN IN THE SIDE, BACK and LOINS, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For DROPSY and DROPSICAL SWELLINGS they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For SUPPRESSION a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

HUMOROUS.

"RUM did it all," said a man on the gallows "and I,ll never drink another drop as long as I live."

THE youth who left home because his mother would not let him wear a standing collar, is now acting as corresponding secretary to a circus.

"THE ATTEMPT," says an exchange, "to start an asylum for useless young men has failed, as no building could be constructed large enough."

A LITTLE girl, looking at a picture of Eve in a Boston gallery, exclaimed: "Oh, mother; I should think that woman would be afraid of grasshoppers!"

GRACE.—"I am going to see Clara today have you a message?"

CHARLOTTE.—"I wonder how you can visit that dreadful girl, Give her my love."

A SOLDIER being asked if he met with much hospitality when in Ireland, replied, "That he was in the hospital nearly all the time he was there."

"DIGBY, will you take some of this butter?" "Thank you, ma'am, I belongs to the temperance society—can't take anything strong," answered Digby.

GIVE a small child a pack ov cards and a spellin book; and he will learn to play a good game of hi-lo-jack long before he kin spell a word of two sillables.

ONE Pittsburg man arrested another for calling him a "schweinegle." He said he did not mind the name so much but wants to know what it means.

GLOVES are now made in England with a pocket on the inside of the palm, to suit the habit indulged in by the fair sex of carrying money in that position.

A couple of farmers in Harding county, Iowa, went to law five years ago over $25. The suit has just ended, and both farmers had to sell their farms to pay the costs.

AN Ohio widow was requested by the dear departed's aristocratic relatives to give a false name when she went out washing so as not to disgrace the family. Such thoughtfulness is touching.

A KING's fool condemned to die, was allowed to choose the form of death, and chose old age. An Iowa girl being asked the same question, remarked that if she must die she preferred to be smothered—with kisses.

"WELL my dear," said our good pastor, at Sunday school, to a tow-headed urchin, "I am glad to hear you are getting to be a better boy." "Why, sir," said little Joe looking up with grave earnestness, "gosh I ain't been sick."

ONE of the New York shoddy aristocrats, a member of a fashionable church, electrified a music-seller some time since by inquiring for "Solomon's Song," saying his minister had spoken of it as a production of great genius and beauty, and that he wanted his daughter to sing it!

AN INJUNCTION.—From Surprise Valley comes the story of an old fellow who got very jealous because his young wife went to a ball with a good looking fellow, and strayed out until broad daylight. The old chap went to a justice of the peace and told his story, winding up with "I want yer to help me, for that thing has been going on about long enough." "Well, said the justice, "you can write down to Yreka and see if some of the lawyers can't get you a divorce." "Divorce!" roared the angry man, "who the deuce wants a divorce?" The justice began to get wrathy. "If you don't want a divorce, what in the duce brought you here?" "Why I want an injunction to stop further proceedings."

THE CHRISTMAS DOOR.

BY LOIS BROOKE.

All the year long the moon gives light,
And makes a silver day of night;
But once a year
She seems more near,—
Shows every night her steadfast face,
And fills the sky with tranquil grace.
'Tis hard to tell when day is done,
For day and night flow into one.

So Heaven shines downward all the while,
And lights us with its constant smile;
But once a year
It draws more near:
Wide open stands the shining door,
With gleams of light unseen before:
And all across flash glimpses fleet
Of upper joys and radiant feet.

'Tis ever so since love broke through.
And down the widening spaces flew:
That blessed year
Our Lord came near;
For Him swung back the starry bound;
Deepened far up the great profound;
All Heaven swept outward at his birth,
And naught was narrow but the earth!

Now evermore He stands and waits
Some lifting of these lower gates:
But once a year
He waits more near:—
Shall the blest door be thrown so wide,
And only we the entrance hide?
Unbar all hearts, make room within,
And let the holy Christmas in!

CHRISTMAS CAROL.

BY J. G. HOLLAND.

I.

There's a song in the air!
There's a star in the sky!
There's a mother's deep prayer
And a baby's low cry!
And the star rains its fire while the Beautiful sing,
For the manger of Bethlehem cradles a King!

II.

There's a tumult of joy
O'er the wonderful birth,
For the Virgin's sweet boy
Is the Lord of the earth.
Ay! the star rains its fire and the Beautiful sing,
For the manger of Bethlehem cradles a King!

III.

In the light of that star
Lie the ages impearled;
And that song from afar
Has swept over the world.
Every hearth is aflame, and the Beautiful sing
In the homes of the nations that Jesus is King.

IV.

We rejoice in the light,
And we echo the song
That comes down through the night
From the heavenly throng.
Ay! we shout to the lovely evangel they bring,
And we greet in his cradle our Saviour and King.

THE DARK HOUR.

"I can't stand it any longer, Jane. I'll go out, and perhaps something will turn up for us."

"It's a cold night, Robert."

"Cold, yes! But it's not much colder outside than in. It would have been much better for you if you had married John Tremain," he said bitterly.

"Don't say that, Robert, I've never regretted my choice."

"Not even now, when there is not a loaf of bread in the house for you and the children."

"Not even now, Robert. Don't be discouraged. God has not forsaken us. Perhaps this Christmas eve the tide will turn; better days may dawn upon us tomorrow."

Robert Brice shook his head despondingly.

"You are more hopeful than I, Jane. Day after day I have been in search of employment. I have called at fifty places, only to receive the same answer everywhere."

Just then little Jimmy, who had been asleep, woke up.

"Mother," he pleaded, "won't you give me a piece of bread? I am so hungry."

"There is no bread, Jimmy darling," said the mother with an aching heart.

"When will there be some?" asked the child piteously.

Tears came to the mother's eyes. She knew not what to say.

"Jimmy, I'll bring you some bread," said the father hoarsely, and he seized his hat and went to the door.

His wife, alarmed, laid her hand upon his sleeve. She saw the look in his eyes, and she feared to what step desperation might lead him.

"Remember, Robert," she said solemnly, "it is hard to starve, but there are things that are worse."

He shook her hand, but not roughly, and without a word passed out.

Out in the cold streets! They would be their only home next. For a brief time longer he had the shelter of a cheerless room in a cold tenement house, but the rent would become due at the end of the month, and he has nothing to meet it.

Robert Brice was a mechanic, competent and skillful. Three years since he lived in a country village where his expenses were moderate, and he found no difficulty in meeting them. But in an evil hour he grew tired of his village home and removed to the city. Here he vainly hoped to do better. For a while he met with very good success, but he found his tenement house, in which he was obliged to live, a poor substitute for the neat cottage which he had occupied in the country. He saw his mistake, but was too proud to go back.

"Of course I can't have as good accommodations here as in the country," he said, "but it is something to live in, and be in the midst of things."

"I'd rather be back again," said his wife; "somehow the city doesn't seem like home; there I used to run in and take tea with a neighbor, and have a pleasant social time; here I know scarcely anybody."

"You'll get used to it after while," said her husband.

She did not think so, but did not like to complain.

But a time of great depression came, and with it a suspension of business enterprises. Work ceased for Robert Brice and many others. If he had been in his old home he could have turned his hand to something else, and at the worst could have borrowed of his neighbors until better times. But the friendly relations arising from neighborhood do not exist in the city to the same extent as in the country. So day by day he went out to seek work, only to find himself one of a large number, all of whom were doomed to disappointment. If he had been alone he could have got along somehow, but it was a sore trial to come into a cheerless room, and pale wife and hungry children, with no relief to offer them.

When on that Christmas eve Robert Brice went into the streets he hardly knew how he was going to redeem the promise he had made little Jimmy. He was absolutely penniless, and had been so for three days. There was nothing that he was likely to find to do at night.

"I will pawn my coat," he said at last. "I cannot see my wife and children starve."

It was a well worn overcoat, and that cold winter night he needed something more to keep him warm. Weakened by enforced fasting he was more sensitive to the cold, and shivered as he walked along without it, but I cannot see my children starve before my eyes."

He was not in general an envious man, but when he saw sleek, well fed citizens buttoned up to the throat in warm overcoats, come out of the brilliantly lighted shops, provided with presents for happy children at home, while his were starving, he suffered some bitter thoughts upon the inequality of fortune's gifts to come to his mind.

Why should they be so happy, he so miserable?

There was a time, he remembered it well, when he too suffered not the Christmas eve to pass without buying some little gift for Jimmy and Agnes. How little he dreamed then that they would ever want bread.

There was one man shorter than himself, warmly clad, who passed him with his hands thrust into the pockets of his overcoat. There was a pleasant smile upon his face. He was doubtless thinking of the happy circle at home.

Robert knew him as a rich merchant, whose ample warehouse he had often passed. He had applied to this man only two days before for employment and been refused. It was perhaps the thought of the wide difference between them, so far as outward circumstances went, that led Robert to follow him.

After a while the merchant—Mr. Grimes—drew his handkerchief safely from his pocket. As he did so he did not perceive that his pocket-book came out with it and fell to the sidewalk.

He did not perceive it, but Robert did. His heart leaped into his mouth and a sudden thought entered his mind. He bent quickly down and picked up the pocket-book. He raised his eyes instantly to see if the movement was noticed. It was not. The merchant went on unheeding his loss.

"This will buy bread for my wife and children," thought Robert, instantly.

A vision of the comfort which the money would bring that cheerless room lighted up his heart for an instant, but then, for he was not dishonest, there came another thought. The money was not his, as much as he wanted it.

"But I cannot see my wife and children starve," he thought again. "If it is wrong to keep the money God will pardon the offence. He will understand my motive."

All this was sophistry, and he knew it. In a moment he felt it to be so. There were some things worse than starvation. It was his wife who said this just before he came out. Could he meet her gaze when he returned with food so obtained.

"I've lived honest so far," he thought; "I won't turn thief now."

It was with an effort he came to this decision, for all the while there was before his eyes that vision of a cheerless home, and he could hear Jimmy vainly asking for food. It was with an effort that he stepped forward and placed his hand on the merchant's shoulder, and extended the hand that held the pocket-book.

"Thank you," said the merchant, turning round, "I hadn't perceived my loss."

"You dropped it when you took out your handkerchief."

"And you saw it and picked it up. I am much obliged to you."

"You have reason to be," said Robert in a low voice. "I came near keeping it."

"That would have been dishonest," said Mr. Grimes, his tone altering slightly.

"Yes, it would; but it's hard on a man to be honest when he is penniless, and his wife and children without a crust."

"Surely you and your family are not in that condition?" said the merchant earnestly.

"Yes," said Robert, "it is only too true."

"And you are out of work?"

"For two months I have vainly sought for work. I applied to you two days since."

"I remember you now. I thought I had seen your face before. You still want work."

"I should feel grateful for it."

"A porter left me yesterday. Will you take his place for twelve dollars a week."

"Thankfully, sir. I would for half that."

"Then come to-morrow morning, or rather, as to-morrow will be a holiday, the day succeeding. Meantime take this for your present necessities."

He drew from his pocketbook a bank note, and put it into Robert's hand.

"It's fifty dollars!" said Robert in amazement.

"I know it. The pocketbook contains a thousand dollars. But for you I should have lost the whole. I wish you a merry Christmas."

"It will, indeed, be a merry Christmas," said Robert, with emotion. "God bless you, sir. Good night."

Jane waited for her husband in the cold and cheerless room, which for a few days longer she might call her home.

"Do you think father will bring some bread?" said little Jimmy, as he nestled close in her lap.

"I hope so, darling," she said; but her heart misgave her, She feared it was a delusive hope.

An hour past—there was a step on the stair—her husband's. It could not be, for this was a cheerful, elastic step, coming up two stairs at a time. She looked eagerly to the door.

Yes, it was he. The door opened. Robert, radiant with joy, entered with a basket full of substantial provisions.

"Have you some bread, father?" asked Jimmy hopefully.

"Yes, Jimmy, some bread and meat from a restaurant, and here's a little tea and sugar. There's a little wood left, Jane, Let's have a bright fire and a comfortable meal; for, please God, this shall be a merry Christmas."

"How did it happen? Tell me, Robert."

So Robert told his wife, and soon a bright fire lit up the before cheerless room, and there were four happy hearts that waited in joyful hope for the dawn of a "Merry Christmas Day."

The next week they moved to a better home. They have never since known what it is to want. Robert found a firm friend in the merchant, and has an account in the savings bank, and has reason to remember, with a grateful heart, God's goodness on that Christmas Eve.

A BRIEF MARKET REPORT.—Pens, ink and paper are stationary; new milk is unchanged: brogans are heavy; wheat is a grain better than oats; wines and liquors generally have a downward tendency; yeast-cakes are rising.

A BLACK HUSBAND PUNISHED.

"Mr. Moncition," said my grand-mother, "I have no wood to burn to-day, What shall I do?"

"Oh! send Louisa round to pick up some," said the good man, making a stride toward the door.

"But she has picked up all she can find."

"Then let her break up some old stuff."

"But she has broken up everything already."

"Oh! well, then do the next best thing—I must be off," said the farmer; and no doubt wondering in his heart what the next best thing would turn out to be.

Noon came, and with it came my grand-father and his four hungry laborers. My grand-mother stood in the kitchen, spinning on her great wheel, and singing a pleasant ditty; Louisa sat scouring tins in the back room, and the cat sat purring on the hearth, before a black and fireless chimney, while the table sat in the middle of the room, spread for dinner, but with empty dishes.

"Well, wife, here we are," said my grand-father, cheerily.

"So I see," replied she, placidly. "Have you had a good morning in the corn-field?"

"Why, yes, so-so. But where is the dinner?"

"In the pot on the door-step. Won't you see if it is done yet?"

And on the door-step, to be sure, sat the great iron pot, nicely covered, but not looking particularly steamy. My grand-father raised the cover and there lay all the ingredients for a nice boiled dinner, everything prepared in the nicest manner, and the pot filled with the clearest of water, and all the vegetables and meat as raw as they had ever been. My grand-father started and my grand-mother joined another roll to the yarn upon her distaff and began another verse of her song.

"Why, woman, what does this mean?" began my grand-father, indignantly.—"This dinner isn't cooked at all?"

"Dear me, is it not?" asked the good wife in pretended astonishment. "Why it has set in the sun this four hours."

"Set In the sun!"

"Yes, you told me to try the next best thing to having a fire, and I thought setting my dinner in the sun was about that."

My grand-father stood doubtful for a moment; but finally his sense of humor overcame his sense of injury, and he laughed aloud. Then picking up his hat he said:

"Come, boys, we might as well start for the woods. We shall have no dinner till we've earned it, I perceive."

"Won't you have some bread and cheese before you go?" asked my grand-mother, generous in her victory, as women always are. And so she won the day.

The cellar-stairs in the old farm house had become broken and so unsafe that my grand-mother besieged her husband, early and late, to repair them, lest some accident should happen. He always promised to do so, and always forgot to fulfill his promise. At last, my grand-mother fell in going down, and spilled the milk she was carrying.

"Are you hurt?" asked my grand-father, smoking his pipe beside the fire.

"No matter whether I am or not," returned the angry housewife, re-appearing with her empty pan. "That is the last time I carry milk down those stairs until they are mended!"

"Please yourself, and find the next best way to get it down," said the husband, a little vexed at her tone.

"I will," said my grand-mother and she was as good as her word. The next evening my grand-father went down cellar to draw some cider.

"What in thunder!" exclaimed he,—nothing worse, I assure you, for he was not a profane man. "What in the thunder is the matter down here? Why, woman, your milk is all over the cellar-bottom!"

"It is!" replied my grand-mother tranquilly. "Well, I think that is likely enough, falling so far."

"Falling so far! What do you mean?"

"Why, you know I said I shouldn't carry the milk over those broken stairs again, and you told me to try the next best way of getting it down, and so I took up a board in the kitchen floor, threw down the pans, and strained the milk into them."

The cellar-steps were mended next day.

A capital joke, and all the more palatable because it is true, and can be vouched for, took place a few Sundays since at one of the prominent churches in New Jersey. It seems that a very worthy deacon had been very industrious in selling a new book costing 75 cents. As the service in question the minister, just before dismissing the congregation, rose and said, "All you who have children to baptize will please present them next Sabbath." The deacon, who, by the way, was a little deaf, and having an eye to selling the books, and supposing his pastor was refering to them, immediately jumped up and shouted, "And all you who haven't any can get as many as you want by calling on me, at seventy-five cents each."

The preacher looked cross-eyed at the brothers, brothers looked at the clergyman, the audience punched the audience in the side, the bubble grew larger until it burst into a guffaw; ladies colored up, blushed, and thanked the Lord for the low price of peopling the earth. There was no benediction that morning worth speaking of.

The deacon, after he found out the mistake, changed his pew from the front of the church to the third from the rear, and though he cannot hear the sermon, he is consoled with the thought that the young ladies can't snicker at him.

MARRIED MEN.—There is an expression on the face of a good married man who has a good wife that a bachelor can not have. It is indescribable. He is a little nearer angels than the prettiest young fellow living. You can see that his broad breast is a pillow for somebody's head, and that little fingers pull his whiskers.—No one ever mistakes the good married man. It is only the erratic one who leaves you in doubt. The good one can protect all the unprotected females, and make himself generally agreeable to the ladies, and yet never leave a doubt on any mind that there is a precious little woman at home worth all the world to him.

A GRAND jury ignored a bill against a negro for stealing. Before the judge discharged him from custody he called up the accused and said to him, "You can go now, John; but let me warn you never to appear here again." John replied, with a broad grin, "I wouldn't been here dis time only de constable fetched me."

SAL AND JAKE.—"Git eout, yew nasty puppy! Let me alone, or I'll tell your ma!" cried out Sally to her lover Jake, who sat about ten feet from her pulling dirt from the chimney jam.

"I ain't touching' on you Sal," responded Jake.

"Well, perhaps you don't mean to nuther—do yer?"

"No I don't."

"'Cause you're tarnel scary! you longe legged, lantern-jawed, slab-sided, pigeon-eyed, gangle owl, you! you havn't got a bit of sense! git along home with you."

"Now Sal, I love you, and can't help it, and if you don't let me stay and court you, my pap will sue your'n for that cow he sold 'tother day. By jingo, he said he'd do it."

"Well, look here, Jake, if you want to court me you'd better do it as a white man does that thing, and not set orf thar as if you thought I was pizen."

"How on airth is that, Sal?"

"Why ride right up here, and hug and kiss me, as if you had some of the bone and sinner of a man about you. Do you suppose a woman's only made to look at, you fool you?"

"Well," said jake, drawing a long breath, "if I must I 'spose I must, for I love you Sal!" and so Jake commenced sliding up to her. Laying his arm gracefully upon Sal's shoulder, and placing himself in a theatrical attitude, we thought we heard Sal exclaim in sweet silvery notes like those of a dying swan:

"That's the way to do it, old hoss! that's it." "Oh Jerusalem and pancakes!" said Jake, drawing the back of his hand across his mouth, "Buckwheat cakes, slap-jacks and lasses ain't no whar, long side o' you Sal!" Here their lips came together, and the report that followed was like pulling a horse's hoof out of the mire.

A SECOND WASHINGTON.—Nasby says: I commenced being good at a very early age, and built myself up on the best models. I was yet an infant when I read the affecting story of the hacking down of the cherry tree by George Washington, and his manly statement to his father that he could not tell a lie. I read the story, and it filled me with the desire to surpass him. I was not going to allow any such boy as George Washington, if he did afterwards get to be a President, to excel me in the moralities. Immediately I seized an axe, and cut down the most valuable cherry tree my father had; and more, I dug up the roots and burned the branches, so that by no means could the variety be produced, and I went skating one Sunday, so that I might confess the two faults, and be wept over and forgiven on account of my extreme truthfulness. The experiments were, I regret to say, partial failures. I was very much like George Washington, but the trouble was, my father didn't resemble George Washington's father, which was essential to the success of my scheme. "Did you cut down that cherry tree?" asked he. "Father, I cannot tell a lie. I did it with my little hatchet," I answered, striking the proper attitude for the old gentleman to shed tears on me. But he didn't shed. He remarked that he had rather I had told a thousand lies than to have cut down that particular tree, and he whipped me till I was in a state of exasperating rawness. My skating idea was no less a failure. I broke through the ice that Sunday and was pulled out with difficulty—and a boat-hook. As I lay sick for a month with a fever, I didn't get a chance to get off the Washington remark.

COULDN'T SEE IT.—In Erie, Pa., there is an elderly gentleman who, until recently, was much annoyed by visits from a life insurance agent. One day an agent named Wilson called upon him, and in a glib manner commenced enumerating the advantages of insuring in a trustworthy company.

'What's the use of insuring my life?' said Mr. B. 'If I die it won't do me any good. I don't see the sense of it.'

Wilson then proceeded to tell him that in case of his death his wife would receive the amount for which he was insured and would thus be placed beyond the reach of want.

On hearing this Mr. B. became furious, and shouted—

'Oh, that's your game, is it? Well, wouldn't I be a pretty fool to be making things comfortable for my wife's second husband? Just after insuring I'd be certain, almost, to get sick and die. Then my wife would go among her neighbors, and brag about the money she had received from your company. Some other blasted fool, hearing of her good luck would propose and marry her, and then he would take her on his knee and kiss her; and laugh over my stupidity while they were spending my money: and I would be compelled to lie in my grave, like a darned fool, unable to say a word.'

TIED DOWN AT HOME.—A friend of ours, says an exchange, was one day importuned by his wife to treat her to a ride. The gentleman, being a man of business, pleaded his engagements, when the wife replied that if any person would furnish him with clothing to wear, and enough to eat and drink, he would be willing to "be tied down at home."

A few days after, the gentleman came home earlier than usual and being fatigued, lay down on the sofa and fell into a sound sleep. His wife took cords and slyly tied his hands together, served his feet in the same way, and made him fast to the sofa. She then set a table with all that the house afforded, and placed an extra suit within his reach. This done, she started to pay a friend a visit. Upon her returning late in the evening, she found her subject of domestic discipline in the same position, except he was wide awake and very mad.

"What on earth does all this mean?" said he.

"Nothing," quietly remarked his wife, "except the consummation of your earthly wishes, enough to eat, drink and wear, and to 'be tied down at home.'"

They were seen riding out the next day.

OLD JUDGE B——, of New Hampshire, was what Artemus Ward would call a "sociable cuss" off the bench, and was noted for his claiming acquaintance with any one whose appearance happened to please him. Entering a crowded car on the Boston and Maine Road one day, his honor found the only unoccupied seat to be by the side of a smartly-dressed and rather good-looking woman. Ascertaining that the seat was not engaged, the judge settled himself comfortably in it, and turning with his accustomed bland, fatherly smile to his fair companion, said:

"Your face seems familiar to me, my dear; I think I must know you."

"I should think you might," said the unknown, in a hoarse, whisky, contralto voice, turning a vindictive pair of eyes on the astonished judge. "I should think you might; you sent me to the House of Correction for three months last winter, you infernal old scoundrel."

The judge did not press his claim for acquaintance any further in that quarter.

PROPOSITION TO HONOR TREASON.

Last week we briefly referred to the debate in the United States Senate on Senator McCreery's proposition to restore "Arlington Heights" to Gen. Lee's widow, and remove the twenty thousand Union dead now reposing there. The outrageous insult thus offered to the Senate and the country, drew out Edmunds, Morton, Scott, Thayer, Patterson, Nye, Sumner, and other Republican Senators, in eloquent and indignant denunciations of the outrage. Aside from the eloquent utterances of these gifted champions of freedom, the debate has a marked significance, in that Mr. McCreery's resolution and the arguments by which he enforced it, disclose the spirit that animates the Democratic leaders, and foreshadows their purpose, if so be the American people should re-invest them with political power. So regarding it, we copy from the official report in the Congressional Globe, a full abstract of the debate, and feel assured that we need tender no apology to our readers for giving it so much prominence. Every intelligent voter should give it a careful persual. Casserly and Bayard, of the Democratic Senators, alone voted with the Republicans in emphatic rebuke of McCreery's proposition. The other Democratic Senators either gave it their approval or shirked the record. The Senate, in absolutely refusing to receive the proposition, fitly expressed the loyal sentiment of the nation, and did justice to the memory of our heroic dead, and in so far we are glad that Senator McCreery gave opportunity for such expression.

Referring to this discussion the Philadelphia Bulletin pertinently remarks that "it is difficult to find any terms in which to denounce this rebel movement, more forcible and eloquent than those employed by the loyal Senators. But we may say that the McCreery resolution is an embodiment of a feeling of sentimental admiration of General Lee which found expression in many Northern newspapers before, and at the time of his death. So much has been said of what Senator McCreery calls Lee's 'inflexible virtue,' of his chivalrous sense of honor, his spotless integrity and his consistent piety, that many weak-minded people have determined that he possessed all these excellent qualities, and was a model gentleman. It was time some expression had been given to the sentiments of the sturdily loyal and sensible people who believe Lee to have been false and treacherous and base; who think that as he sinned deliberately and in cold blood, disregarding his solemn oath and most sacred obligations, drawing his sword in an unholy cause; that as he exerted his great influence to seduce many weaker men from their allegiance, and as he used his talent for four years in such a manner that he caused the death of thousands of innocent men, he was a traitor so foul and wicked that Benedict Arnold seems almost virtuous when compared with him. We rejoice that this opinion has at last found official utterance, for if the rebel verdict had been suffered to prevail, incalculable harm would have been done to the youth of the country and to the moral sense of many of the people."

SENATORS SHURZ AND DRAKE, of Missouri, had Friday and Saturday last, as field days in the Senate, explaining and defending their positions in the recent political contest in that State. Senator Shurz, who is a brilliant debater, occupied Friday in an elaborate advocacy of his proposition, by a General Amnesty bill, to restore political and civil rights to all who waged war against the Government. Senator Drake replied on Saturday, charging on his colleague a deliberate betrayal of the Republicans of Missouri by striking hands with rebels and traitors. He held that amnesty could only be safely extended to those who were willing to accept the situation and manifested a purpose to stand by the Government. So long as murder was rampant in the South, and the lives of Union men were threatened by these same rebels, it would be a crime to invest them with political power. Senator Drake's reply elicited applause in the galleries several times, notwithstanding the interposition of the Vice President, showing that Senator Shurz's sentimental philanthropy will have to be nursed awhile, before it can be made acceptable to loyal men.

AN exchange says: "Terre Haute claims to have whiskey that takes men's finger nails off. That is nothing. New Jersey has whiskey that will carry all the furniture out of a man's house, throw him out in the street, lock the door and carry away the key."

Pennsylvania whiskey can beat that—stealing men's brains, converting them into idiots, fools, madmen, murderers. More—it will sweep away a man's all, house, goods, property, social position, family joys, and life itself; giving him in exchange squalid poverty, pinching want, blasted hopes, blighted home, beggared wife, starving children, social degredation, a felon's cell, a drunkard's grave and a drunkard's hell! Great is whiskey—marvellous its powers and gifts—still more marvellous, the number and devotion of its votaries.

P. S. DECHERT, Democrat, was elected Senator from the 1st Philadelphia district, on Tuesday, by 1,348 majority. The vote was light, the Republicans, who carried the district at the October election by over 1,000 majority, allowing the election to go by default. The Democracy, appreciating the importance of the contest, polled a full vote, elected their candidate, and thus secure the organization and control of the State Senate—a matter of no small moment in its bearing on the Congressional and Legislative district apportionments, and the general legislation this winter.

THERE have been no movements of special importance in France during the past week. Frequent skirmishing takes place between French and German troops at various points, with indecisive results. From French sources, we have the announcement that the army of the Loire has been re-inforced and will soon attempt another forward movement, and that Paris is in good condition with ample supplies for months. The siege of Paris has now lasted three months. Another sortie is expected by the Germans. Accounts as to the probable bombardment of the city are conflicting.

Russia is reported as approving Prussia's purpose to absorb Luxembourg. An early meeting of the Conference on the Eastern question is expected, and hopes are entertained that the Conference may take steps to secure a settlement of the Franco German war.

CONGRESS adjourned yesterday, to meet again on the 4th of January. The Committees will then be prepared to report, and legislation will be begun in earnest. There will be but two months for work, the session expiring by constitutional limitation on the 4th of March.

THE difference between Democratic and Republican rule is, that the former creates debt and the latter pays it. Those who believe that debt is a blessing, and taxation a luxury, should be Democrats. Those who think different should be Republicans.

THE PERRY COUNTY HORROR.

Alleged Murder and Forgery.

The excitement in Markleville and vicinity, the scene of the late terrible calamity, has undergone no subsidence—in fact, it has rather increased than diminished. There are very few who believe that the four members of the Boyer family who perished in the flames were not chloroformed and deliberately murdered. First it was supposed that the conflagration was traceable to the explosion of a coal-oil lamp, but investigation gave room for much doubt as to the correctness of this belief. The parties had apparently not moved; no effort had been made to escape the smoke or fire; the bodies lay in a natural sleeping posture. If the house had caught fire by a coal-oil lamp explosion, it was reasonable to suppose the inmates would have discovered the danger and struggled to extricate themselves from their impending fate. So reasoned nearly everybody who was made acquainted with the facts. The disappearance of over seven ounces of chloroform from the drug store of Dr. Ard, of New Bloomfield, on the Wednesday before the fire, which occurred on December 3, confirmed the opinion that the family were drugged and then committed to the flames. Some few suspected Thomas J. Boyer, son of a brother of the deceased, of having committed the double crime, and since then the sentiment has become almost universal in the vicinity of the catastrophe that he was the guilty man! On Thursday and Friday last an inquisition was held on the bodies of the deceased, and on Monday evening information was made before John R. Shuler, Esq., by District Attorney B. P. M'Intire, charging that from the evidence elicited at the coroner's inquest it was believed "that Thomas J. Boyer, a son of J. P. Boyer, caused the death of John P. Boyer, Jane Ann Boyer, Elizabeth Boyer, and John Boyer, and then set fire to the dwelling house and consumed their bodies so as to conceal the heinous crime of murder." The same information charged him with having forged the name of Wilson Darlington, his father-in-law, to a note, for forty-five dollars, payable to A. S. Whitekettle; and, also, the name of his father to two notes given the Perry County Bank—one for two hundred dollars and the other for one hundred dollars; also, the name of his father to another note given to Wilson Darlington and A. B. Clouser for one hundred and twenty-five dollars.

On Tuesday morning Thomas J. Boyer was arrested by Sheriff Rinehart and imprisoned in the Perry county jail. The accused was formerly deputy under Sheriff Rinehart, and several months ago it was reported that he had been attacked by highwaymen and a sum of money belonging to Perry county taken from him. Since the late occurrences an impression has gained that his story was manufactured; that he promulgated it so that he might deceive the people and appropriate the money to his own use.

Thomas J. Boyer is a man aged about thirty years, and recently married a young daughter of Wilson Darlington, a resident of one of the rural districts of Perry county. Mr. Darlington is a gentleman of wealth and high respectability.

ODD FELLOWSHIP STARTED IN GERMANY.—A lodge of the independent Order of Odd Fellows, under the jurisdiction of the grand lodge of the United States, has been instituted at Stuttgart, in Germany, by the special deputy commissioned by the grand sire of the American order. There are many thousands of German Odd Fellows in this country.

TREASON HONORED!

DEBATE IN THE U. S. SENATE

DEMOCRATIC ASSAULT ON THE SLEEPING LEGIONS OF OUR DEAD

EULOGIUM ON GEN. ROBERT E. LEE

The Senate Vindicates the Heroic Dead

The debate in the U. S. Senate last week, on the proposition of Senator McCREERY, of Kentucky, to remove the Union dead from "Arlington Heights," put the property in repair, and restore it to the Lee family, with indemnity for past use by the Government, has a more than passing interest, and we accordingly transfer to our columns a full abstract of it.

Mr. EDWARDS, of Vermont, objected to the introduction of the resolution, and said the idea that the Senate of the United States is to enter into an investigation as to whether there is not some contrivance by which the bones of our soldiers can be dug up on the other side of that Virginia stream and carried off somewhere else, and the property given back to its late rebel owners, was to his mind perfectly monstrous, and he hoped the Senate would not consent to receive or entertain such a proposition.

Mr. MCCREERY followed in a lengthly eulogium of Gen. Lee and defence of his resolution. He referred to the circumstances attending the recent decease of two of the foremost generals on either side in the late war, Lee and Thomas, and spoke of the friendly intimacy existing between these generals up to the commencement of the rebellion, when Thomas followed the starry emblem of the Union, and Lee resolved to stand or fall by the State that had given him birth; of the general sorrow and respect which manifested itself in either section succeeding the mournful intelligence of their decease. He proceeded to eulogize the inflexible virtue, military genius, and valor of General Lee, remarking that the American people would never relinquish the property which they had in the name and fame of the great Virginian. He then referred to the principal historic features of Lee's campaigns to show that with the means at his command possibly no other man could have accomplished results so vast.

During his remarks Mr. McCreery reviewed in detail the salient features of General Lee's civil and military service, particularly his recent efforts in connection with Jefferson College, his Revolutionary ancestry, and sincere devotion to duty. Referring to the sword as the least capable of all tribunals to decide a cause upon its merits, the speaker went on to argue that the judgment of the sword had not always commanded that universal respect which would have been expected from a court of so large a jurisdiction, and that history had enrolled the names of Hampden and Sidney upon the list of martyrs in the sacred cause of right.

MR. EDMUDNS maintained that Gen. Lee had committed the crime of treason against more light, aginst better opportunities of knowing that he was committing it, than probably any man in the whole range of the Southern States. Instead of being the child of Virginia and wedded to the institutions of his State, and sharing destinies with a passionate enthusiasm, he was the child of the people; he was the ward of the nation. It had educated him, it had fed him, it had clothed him; it had instructed his military talents, which he turned against it at last. He lived at the capital, and when the capital called upon him to follow and defend the flag that he had been born under, and educated under, and protected under, and honored under, he turned his back to it deliberately, and planted his cannon in sight of the capital he had sworn to protect and defend.—But he [Mr. Edmunds] would not dignify the proposition by discussing it. Lee was now dead. The only regret, he thought, that rightminded men, who believed in the war, would have, was that General Lee had not died either in his youth or in his patriotic manhood, or even that he had not died earlier than he did by the hand of the law, which penality would have atoned in some measure for his crime.

[A discussion here followed as to the propriety of the Senate refusing leave to a member to introduce a resolution. Mr. Trumbull, of Illinois, while professing no sympathy with the resolution of the Senator from Kentucky, opposed such action, as establishing a bad precedent. Messrs. Sumner and Edmunds, in reply, cited as precedents the refusal of the Senate to allow the introduction of bills for the annexation of Texas and for the repeal of the fugitive slave law. The Vice President also cited several instances, when the debate was resumed.]

Mr. MORTON, of Indiana, protested against the consideration of the resolution. He had heard what he never expected to hear, an eulogy upon the character of General Lee in the Senate of the United States, and that, too, within sight of the graves of the victims of his rebellion. Hampden and Sidney did not die for human slavery, but for liberty. This man General Lee was, of all others in the rebellion, a sinner. He had sinned against light and knowledge. His Revolutionary ancestry, his oath of fealty as an officer of the United States, his finished education and high abilities, all forbade him thus to sin; and the enormity of his crime could not be concealed by decorating his grave with flowers of rhetoric. In a word, it was now proposed that the Senate should gravely consider a proposition to degrade the memories of the patriotic dead of Arlington by removing their bones to less hallowed ground in tender consideration of the rights of the widow of the arch-rebel of the most wicked rebellion in history.

Mr. SCOTT, of Pennsylvania. Mr. President, it may be that long service in this Chamber has enabled some Senators so to control their feelings that it is deemed dignified not to give expression to them. It may be, sir, that it is even prudent and that older Senators have learned that prudence, not to attempt to give utterance to sentiments which welled up in my bosom when I heard the opening sentences of the Senator from Kentucky. Those opening sentences uttered in this Chamber, coupling together the names of Thomas and of Lee, brought back to my recollection the utterance of a Senator who once occupied a seat in this chamber, and made at the time when Thomas and Lee were taking their departures upon the paths that were presented them. Stephen A. Douglas declared at that hour, that from that day hence there were but two classes in the nation—patriots and traitors.

And, sir, another feeling arose when I re-called that sentiment. It was this: I have heard it uttered elsewhere, I repeat it here, that since the day when the sword flamed at the east gate of Eden there has never been such an exhibition of magnanimity and of mercy as there has been by the United States toward those who engaged in the late rebellion; and it was illustrated to-day when the Senate of the United States could sit in patience and listen to a eulogy upon the man who on that day started out in the path of treason.

Has it ever been, sir, that such a rebellion against constituted government, carried on for years, has terminated not simply without the execution of a single criminal for treason, but without even a trial for the purpose of defining the law of treason? And has it ever been before that the highest legislative tribunal of any nation has sat in patience and listened to a eulogy upon the chief conspirator engaged in tearing that Government down?

If the man upon whom this eulogy has been pronounced had been successful in the efforts in which the laurels this day thrown over his grave were won, where would this Senate have been sitting? Would this be a land of freedom, or would it not have been one over which the dark pall of slavery would have cast its shadow from the St. Lawrence to the Gulf? Should we be here to-day, sir, deliberating upon this question if the man upon whom this eulogy is passed had been successful in his efforts? And now, sir, as if to add to this proposition all the enormity that the proposition itself carries upon its face, what is proposed? General Lee starting out as the champion of the armies which sought to establish the doctrine of secession; his property consecrated by the nation as the burial ground of the martyrs who fell to seal the doctrine that our Constitution forms a nation from which no State can secede; to-day on the heights of Arlington the doctrine of secession lies buried beneath the bones of the thousands of men who fell to seal the covenant of the nation; and we have the spectacle today of a resurrectionist coming here and reaching his hand beneath the bones of the nation's martyrs to drag out the dead doctrine that lies interred beneath them. Shall it be done, sir? Can we sit in patience and listen to such a proposition as this?

Mr. SAULSBURY, of Delaware, said he would vote for the reception of the resolution, because he deemed it the right of any member of the Senate to introduce any resolution upon any subject which he may deem it his duty to present. Messrs. HARLAN, WILLY, and SAWYER opposed the reception of the resolution, characterizing it as improper and insulting to the country.

Mr. THAYER, of Nebraska, said a stranger in this Chamber for the last hour would hardly have supposed that he was in the American U. Senate. He would rather have imagined that he was in the confederate congress at Richmond six years ago, when eulogies were pronounced upon Stonewall Jackson.

I have predicted during the last three or four years that the time would come, if the policy of Congress was not rigidly carried out and adhered to in the southern States, when the leaders of the rebellion would sit in these seats and encomiums would be pronounced upon their acts. In one respect, the day has come sooner than I anticipated. The honorable Senator from Kentucky has thought proper to pronounce a glowing eulogium upon the leader of armies of the rebellion. I listened to him carefully, and not one word did I hear falling from his lips in condemnation of his treason.

The linking of the names of Thomas and Lee was unfortunate. It is true they were associated together in early life. Both were educated by the States to be its protectors when assailed; both took a solemn oath, written down by the recording angel, that they would forever be its defenders against foreign or domestic foes. The one—Thomas—nobly, sacredly, grandly, kept his oath. He fought for the flag of the Union, and was faithful to the end. He has passed away. His name is inscribed on the rolls of immortal renown. The other was faithless to his solemn vow. With perjury in his soul he raised the black standard of treason, and through all the scenes and vicissitudes, the dangers and the trials and the battles of four years, he fought with his best energies and his best efforts to destroy the Union whose flag he had sworn to defend forever.

The Senator from Kentucky has no word of condemnation for this foul, glaring, damning treason. General Lee is held up as a model of virtue and right and truth to the youth of the American nation. That is what we witness here to-day. The proposition is made, and we are discussing the question of its reception, whether the graves of twenty thousand heroic dead, who died that the nation might live, shall be opened and their bones and their dust gathered up and scattered along the way, to be deposited somewhere else, to make way for the widow of the traitor whose hands were chiefly instrumental in taking the lives of that army of martyrs who sleep on the heights of Arlington. That is the spectacle which we now witness in the Senate of the United States, before six years have passed away from the laying down of the arms of the rebellion! The graves of those men who gave their lives that we might sit here in common with the people of the Union in the enjoyment of the blessings of the Union, purchased by their blood and their lives, are to be opened; an act of sacrilege is to be committed, in order that this property may be given back to the widow of Lee. Sir, as an American citizen, as a Senator of the United States, and as a soldier in the war for the Union, I enter my solemn protest against it.

MR. PATTERSON, of New Hampshire. Mr. President quite enough, perhaps, has been said in relation to this subject; but it seems to me there is one element of turpitude in this resolution which has not been fully considered by the Senate. We are asked, not simply to inquire into the propiety of restoring this property to the widow of General Lee, but we are to inquire also as to the propriety of removing the dead who fell in the cause of the Union from that estate, in order that the widow of the great rebel may return and inhabit her old dwelling-place. It seems to me that that is an insult to all the dead who fell in the mighty struggle for the Union, and an outrage to all the living who fought for the great cause. It is not simply asking that their estate may be restored to the rank and file of the rebel army, but that this estate may be restored to the family of the arch traitor who left Washington after having been educated at the expense of the republic; left this very capitol, where, from his position, he was cognizant of all the secrets of the Administration and of its plans and policy to hurl back and crush treason, and took with him that knowledge to Richmond, that he might use it to overthrow the Government which had educated, trusted, and honored him. We are solicited now to restore to the widow and children of the man who added ingratitude and the betrayal of confidence to treason, the estate which he fled from in order to disintegrate the Union, destroy this capitol, and desolate the homes of the loyal States.

Sir, there is an audacity about this proposition which even excels that of Cataline when he came into the Roman senate as a traitor, and against whom Cicero pronounced that memorable oration which posterity can never forget. And yet, sir, as if the proposition itself was not enough, the Senate of the United States this morning is insulted by having a eulogy pronounced upon the leading traitor whose defection sent hundreds of thousands of loyal sons of the North to bloody graves and laid a burden of debt upon the country which our posterity for three generations cannot overcome—a debt which to-day is hampering the industry of the laboring poor all over the North and the South alike; that man of all others, upon whom the black stain of treason will rest in all the hereafter, is eulogised in the Senate of the United States by an honorable Senator, and we are asked to inquire into the propriety of restoring to his widow this estate, from which the arch-rebel stole away, hurling back upon the Senate and upon the capitol of the nation, and into the very face of the people, his contempt; we are called upon to entertain this proposition in behalf of the man who prostituted his large ability and his great office to overthrow the Constitution of his country and trail its flag dishonored in the dust.

We are asked to dig up bones of the dead who are sleeping upon Arlington, and to lay them elsewhere, in order that the woman who fled even before her husband from the capitol may come back to dwell where our heroes fell for liberty and the nation's life. Sir, it is an outrage upon the loyal feeling of the country; it is an outrage on the dignity of the Senate, that this thing should be done. I am against it. Let them sleep where they are—the dead guard of the capital. I would not say one word or make one movement that would uncover the fires over which the ashes of time are settling; I would do nothing to cause a rekindling of the passions of the rebellion; but when treason itself, when rebellion itself, comes into the Senate and starts the sad and terrible memories of the past, I think it is due to ourselves, it is due to the loyal people of the country, it is due to the living heroes that fought for the Union, it is due to the dead, that we should rise up here and indignantly put our feet upon the pregnant purpose.

Mr. NYE, of Nevada, followed in an eloquent address, arguing against the reception of the resolution. He was followed by Mr. FLANAGAN, of Texas, in the same vein. Even Mr. BAYARD, of Delaware, while defending the motives of the Senator from Kentucky, declared himself hostile to the proposition before the Senate.

MR. SUMNER, of Massachusetts. Mr. President, being called to vote on the pending motion, I desire to say that I wish on this occasion to apply the parliamentary law in its strongest form. Whatever rigors it may have against propositions inopportune or offensive in character should be applied now, or they should never be invoked again; for never in this Chamber before was there similiar occasion for what I have called the rigors of parliamentary law. Therefore shall I vote for the most summary proposition to dispose of this resolution.

Beyond this, perhaps, there is no occasion for remark, especially when I consider how eloquent Senators have already characterized the proposition and the traitor whom it seeks to commemorate. I am not disposed to speak of General Lee. It is enough to say that he stands on the catalogue of those who have imbrued their hands in their country's blood. I hand him over to the avenging pen of History.

But there is one practical remark that I would make. I would call the attention of the Senate to the character of this proposition in another aspect. We all know the political associations of the honorable Senator who has introduced it. May we not regard this resolution as showing the sentiments of his associates? Does it not prefigure the policy that they would establish should they obtain power in the government of the country, as threatened by the Senator from Delaware, as threatened by other Senators and by other associates of those Senators? Do we not see here the policy that would be established—a policy which is to take the old rebellion by the hand; which is to install it in the high places of power, in the Executive Mansion, in these Halls of Congress?

Now, sir, could I make my voice heard from one end of this country to the other, from Massachusetts to Louisiana, it would be to warn against that political combination which shows its hands now in the proposition of the Senator from Kentucky.—Take warning, I would say to my fellow-countrymen everywhere, not only at the South but at the North, but especially at the South, that the political party with which the Senator is associated, should it obtain power in this nation, will establish the policy of which his resolution is the representative. That is the practical remark I have to make.

There is a fact which I think I ought to contribute to this debate. It so happened that I was with the late Mr. Stanton when he made the order for the burial of our patriot dead on the grounds of Arlington. He mentioned it; disclosed to me his reason. He said he meant to bury those dead there in perpetual guard over that ground, so that no person of the family of Lee should ever dare to come upon it unless to encounter the ghosts of those patriots. It was in that spirit that that ground was set apart. Now, as I understand, it is proposed to take up those remains and to give over the ground to the family of the traitor.

My friend by my side [Mr. NYE] has already used an expression which I think was a happy inspiration, when he said that those dead lying there were as sacred as the constitution itself. I think he was right. We may as well disturb our sacred text as disturb their remains. Over every grave are written words of warning. Do you remember, sir, in some respects the most memorable epitaph ever written, that over the remains of William Shakspeat? It is as follows:

> "Good Friend! for Jesus' sake forbear
> To dig the dust inclosed here.
> Blest be the man that spares these stones:
> And cursed be that moves my bones."

For two centuries and a half those words have guarded the sacred remains of England's greatest poet. I write them now over the grave of every one of our patriot dead. May they continue for centuries to come to guard their remains.

At this stage of the debate, the Democratic Senators grew restive and sought to evade a direct vote and prevailed on Mr. McCreery to ask leave to withdraw his resolution. Objection being made to this, Mr. Davis, of Kentucky, moved to lay the whole subject on the table. A long debate here sprung up as to the propriety of allowing the Senator from Kentucky to withdraw his resolution between Messrs. Edmunds, McCreery, Trumbull, Patterson, and Bayard, when finally the motion to lay on the table was defeated, ayes 9, nays 49, when the Senate was brought to a direct vote on the original motion to grant Mr. McCreery leave to introduce his resolution, with the following result:

THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY for January opens well. The first article on "A Year in a Venetian Palace," by W. D. Howells—who could not write poorly if he tried, and is never likely to try—is exquisite for its descriptions, and is also instructive as a guide-book. "Miss Moggaridge's Provider" is one of Harriet Prescott Gifford's best stories. "The Valley of Gartein," by a mysterious "H. H.," is a mixture of travel, sketch and story, quite pleasant to take mentally. Col. Higginson narrates in his charming style "Madam Della's Expectations." As a beginning in a serial of "Castilian Days," Mr. John Hay gives "A Field-night in the Spanish Cortes," vividly sketching Prim, Castellar and the other present notabilities of Spanish politics. Our Eyes and How to Take Care of Them," by Dr. Henry W. Williams, is an article abounding in useful information, especially in this part of the country, where eye-complaints seem to be peculiarly prevalent.—"Kate Beaumont" is a readable story by J. W. De Forest. "Our whispering Gallery," by Mr. Fields, devoted in the present installment to Thackerary, opens admirably, and promises to be the feature of the coming numbers. Evidently the Atlantic means to maintain its ascendency in American periodical literature during 1871 at least.

THE January SCRIBNER'S, of which 100,000 copies are printed, is one of the handsomest numbers of a magazine ever issued. There are no less than ten illustrated articles, the general quality of the illustrations being far above the average of similar publications. The paper is of extra quality and the type is clear and beautiful. The leading article is an interesting account of "Fairmount Park," Philadelphia, one of the most remarkable works of the kind in the world. Prof. Wilder gossips about "Kings of the Air," his article being elegantly illustrated. Next comes "The Goblin of the Ice, or Christmas at the North Pole," by Dr. Hayes, a story founded upon a quaint Greenland legend, and presenting some striking phases of life and adventure within the Arctic Circle. Among the illustrated articles are "Ships," by J. T. Headley, and "Strasburg after the Surrender," with six pictures from photographs made especially for the magazine.—Ex-minister John Bigelow contributes an important paper on the "Terms of Peace proposed by the Great Powers." Mr. Crounse's "How we Escaped War with Spain" will attract immediate attention; while other interesting articles are entitled "A Christmas Eve in Germany," and "Tartini's Dream-Music." Two poems, "The Christmas Door" and "The Northern Lights," are illustrated, the latter by Thomas Moran; and Dr. Holland's "Christmas Carol" is accompanied by music, by George J. Huss.—In the "Topics of the Time," "Christmas," "The European Outlook," "Women and Wine," and "Social Taxes" are discussed. "The Old Cabinet" talks about "The Bonapartes and Murats in Bordentown," and "Our Friend the Present Incumbent." A department is introduced—"Home and Society," which includes "Holiday Shopping," "A Glance at the Fashions," "Christmas Greens" and "Parlor Bulbs."

THE BREVITY OF LIFE.

> "'Tis not for man to trifle, life is brief,
> Our age is but the falling of a leaf.
> We have no time to sport away the hours,
> All must be earnest in a world like ours.
> Not many lives, but one have we,
> How sacred should that one be."

And still how many fritter away their lives, unable to fill any useful purpose, because some lingering disease unfits them for it, and they neglect or refuse to use the remedies within their reach. God in his wonderful arrangement of nature has provided an antidote for all the ills that human flesh is heir to, and by the aid of science the medicinal virtues of certain herbs, roots and barks have been combined and the result is known all over the civilized world as MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS. It thoroughly purifies the blood, invigorates the nervous fibres, elevates the standard of all the vital forces, and sustains a most healthful tone of the entire human organization. Sold by all druggists and dealers. Dr. S. B. Hartman & Co., Proprietors, Lancaster, Pa.

ROSADALIS

THE GREAT AMERICAN HEALTH RESTORER, purifies the blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Diseases of Women, and all Chronic Affections of the Blood, Liver and Kidneys. Recommended by the Medical Faculty and many thousands of our best Citizens.

Read the testimony of Physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis; send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health Book, or Almanac for this year, which we publish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information.

Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore, says:

I take pleasure in recommending your ROSADALIS as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in a case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of alterative ingredients.

Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of scrofula and Secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleaner of the Blood I know no better remedy.

Samuel G. M'Fadden, Murfresboro', Tenn. says:

I have used seven bottles of Rosadalis, and am entirely cured of Rheumatism; send me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother who has scrofulous sore eyes.

Benjamin Bechtol, of Lima, Ohio, writes. I have suffered for twenty years with an inveterate eruption over my whole body; a short time since I purchased a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.

Rosadalis is sold by all Druggists.

LOCAL ITEMS.

EXPIRED.—The time for killing Pheasants and Deer expired on Tuesday last. Sportsmen will take notice.

☞ We direct attention to the sale of Jacob C. Herbst, valuable Personality and a Farm of 70 Acres, in Cumberland township, to take place Monday Dec. 26. ts

FINISHED.—Rothermel's great Painting of the Battle of Gettysburg is finished, and was formally "unveiled" in Philadelphia on Tuesday night.

MONDAY A HOLIDAY.—As Christmas falls on Sunday this year, it is understood that our business men have agreed to close on Monday, in order to give their employees the usual Christmas holiday.

RE-UNION.—The officers and privates of the 126th Pa. Regiment had a re-union in Chambersburg on the evening of the 13th ult., about 200 setting down to supper. speeches, toasts, &c., were indulged in to a late hour. The next re-union will be held in Greencastle, Dec 13, 1871.

NEW HYMN BOOK.—The new "Book of Worship," prepared by the General Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, has made its appearance, and can now be had at A. D. BUEHLER's Book Store. Besides revised Hymns, it contains an Order of Worship, the Formula of Church Government, Luther's Smaller Catechism, the Augsburg Confession, and Prayers for family use.

NEW BLANKS.—We have now on hand a full assortment of newly printed Blanks for Justices of the Peace, including Informations, Warrants, Commitments, Summonses, Subpœnas, Executions, &c. Also Sale Notes, Negotiable Notes, Judgment Notes, &c., with and without waver clauses, School Warrants, School Statements, Contracts with Teachers, &c. Orders promptly filled.

CHRISTMAS IS COMING.—A little over two weeks, the Christmas holidays will be here. Parents and others, who are looking around for substantial gifts to their children and friends, will do well to call and examine the large assortment of attractive Books, specially prepared for the holiday season, at the Bookstore of A. D. BUEHLERS, on Chambersburg street. The assortment embraces a large variety of the best Juvenile publications, together with Standard Literature, gotten up in every style, and admirally adapted for the Library or Center Table. Also, Perfumery, Toilet Soaps, fine Cutlery, and Fancy Articles.

YEAR BOOK.—The publishers of the New York Observer will issue on the 1st of January, a "Year Book and Almanac," containing valuable civil, commercial and agricultural information, with a large amount of statistics bearing on religious and benevolent operations of the Christian church, price $1. A copy of this valuable work will be given gratuitously to all who subcribe and pay for the Observer for one year. The N. Y. Observer is one of the most valuable religous journals of the day, and this liberal offer of the publishers ought to secure a large increase in circulation. See adv.

SALES.—David Sneeringer, Assignee of Joseph Kuhn, has sold the farm of assignor, in Mountpleasant township—112 acres, with improvements—to Simon Harnish, at something upwards of $3,900.

Mr. George Ehrehart, Executor, has sold the farm of Samuel B. Patterson, deceased, in Hamilton township, to Solomon Gable, of York county—118 acres, at $56 per acre, cash.

Samuel Herbst has sold a Lot on West Middle street, 3½ acres to Frederick Reichley, for $425.

Samuel Herbst has sold to Daniel Ebersole, of Franklin county, his fine mule team, consisting of six mules, for $1,000 cash. Mr. Herbst has hauled with this team 6½ tons in one load.

TEACHER'S INSTITUTE.—The Adams County Teacher's Institute will commence its sessions in the Conrt-house on Monday next. The County Superintendent, Mr. Wert, has arranged an attractive programme, and it is to be hoped there will be a large attendance of Teachers, Director and friends of Common School Education. Boards of Directors should not only cheerfully grant to Teachers the requisite to attend the Institute, but REQUIRE them to attend. The practical teaching for the balance of the School term will be all the more efficient therefor.

Prof. Ferrier, of Pennsylvania College, will lecture in the Court-house on Monday evening before the Teachers' Institute, on "The Faculty of Attention." At that time the other Lectures and Entertainments for the week will be announced. Prof. Ferrier's Lecture will be a new one and doubtless of great interest. The County Superintendent has secured the services of the Littlestown Orchestra for most of the evening sessions of the week.

CHRISTMAS GOODS.—The Toy Stores are just now the centre of attraction for the young folks. Messrs. Gruel, Zinn and Minnigh have all laid in large assortments of Toys. A. D. Buehler has a fine collection of Gift Books and Fancy Articles. Col. C. H. Buehler displays a large variety of useful articles for domestic use, in the kitchen, pantry and dining room. Messrs. Fahnestock Bros., J. L. Schick and Rebert & Bushman, exhibit an unusually brilliant array of Dress Goods. W. P. McCartney and A. R. Feistle have Jewelry and Silver Ware; Tipton & Myers Photographs and Sterreoscopic Views; while the Grocery men offer attractions in their line.

Our advice to all who contemplate purchasing for the holidays, to is examine the "STAR AND SENTINEL" advertisements. Take it for granted always that you can do best with energetic wide-awake business men; and this class of men can be measured by the liberality with which they advertise their goods and wares.

BATTLE-FIELD SURVEY.—Lieut. Dager, of the U. S. Typographical Engineer service, and Col. Batchelder, the author of the celebrated Map of the Gettysburg Battlefield, are now in town, being here for the purpose of perfecting the topoghaphical map prepared by the Engineer Corps last summer. Col. Batcheldor is more familiar with the Battle-field, the movements and positions of troops, and points of interest, than any man living, having made it a special study for years. Besides having access to official records, he has had personal intercourse with many of the officers and privates, Union and Rebel, who participated in the fight, and has secured a mass of valuable information which it is his purpose to bring out in connection with his proposed history of the Battle. Col. B. comes now, at the request of the Government, to assist Lieut. Dager in mapping the correct position of the breast-works and lines occupied by the contending armies.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE will afford a splendid opportunity to those attending to have their Photographs taken at TIPTON & MYERS' Galleries. 1t

CHRISTMAS GREENS.—In Scribner's Monthly for January we find some pleasant talk about Christmas and its customs, especially the home-trimmings peculiar to this delightful festive season. Fortunately, the old fashions of the evergreens become newer every year. In the fresh growth whose roots strike eighteen centuries deep, the flowerless plants take up a sudden bloom: their stiff and rugged forms become beautiful with household grace. What wonder, as each Christmas draws near, we hasten to brighten our homes with their branches? The trimmings need not be elaborate or showy. A few little sprays may suffice—anything to make a writing on the wall that every one, from grandpa to the baby, may read.

If wreaths and festoons be required, long strings of twine may be deftly covered with Arbor Vitæ sprigs, and swung from point to point, or wound about some else bare column; or, better still, the trailing evergreen, popularly known as German ivy, may be used. It is found in many localities. If one cannot turn mountaineer for its sweet sake, it may be purchased in almost any street or market-place, as the blessed day draws near.—Hemlock, pine, spruce, ivy, and laurel boughs, all are beautiful—a cluster here, a festoon there, and, perhaps, a few green sprays tenderly encircling the picture of one whose memory draws the living closer together.

Sometimes a christmas motto may be needed over archway or entrance, or in grandmamma's warm corner where the big chair stands. It is easily made by cutting the required letters out of stiff paper, and lightly sewing on bits of Arbor Vitæ, taking care that the letter's edge be not too sharply defined. Another way of covering the forms is to glue moss upon them; and still another (though it is traitorous to suggest it) is to paint the paper letters with glue, and immediately sprinkle on a quantity of fine evergreen clippings scarcely larger than rose thorns.

Then there's the Christmas tree. Never omit that. Let it be large or small, richly lighted and laden, or only daintily pricked off with candies, candles, and follies—but a Christmas tree let there be.—Hemlock, cedar, pine, and spruce are suited to the purpose; but prettier and firmer than all is the species known as the white pine—so rich a green, and, withal, so light and feathery that, lit with its hundred tapers, it looks like a Christmas fountain covered with sparkles of sunlight.

Above all things, see to it that little ones are made happy on Christmass eve. Gather them around the domestic hearth—tell them the old, old story of the Shepherds who watched their flocks by night, —the Babe of Bethlehem, and God's great love to man. Let there be loving mementoes of affection between parents and children, brothers and sisters, friends and relatives. Let the "old folks" become children again, while the little folks have life's pathway lighted up with glad memories of Christmas eve. Make home supremely happy for at least one day in the year. Nor stop there. Let your sympathy go out broadly and deeply on Christmas eve, and while you light up your own homes with kindly greetings and innocent mirth, see to it that those who feel the pinching pressure of poverty, share the bounties wherewith Providence has blessed you. Remember the poor.

To all our patrons we extend the greeting of the season, with hearty wishes for a "Merry Christmas."

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT, PA. COLLEGE.

MR. EDITOR:—Having been invited to attend the examination of the Preparatory Department of Pennsylvania College, you will permit me, through your paper, to communicate my impressions. I do this the more readily, as the people of Gettysburg and vicinity do not appreciate the advantages of education, thus brought to their very doors. The Preparatory Department seems to have started out on a new and more prosperous career and every thing connected with it indicates an Institution of high grade. Under the general superintendence of Prof. Sentman, a degree of order and regularity has been maintained which is highly creditable. Residing as he does in the building, he is brought in constant contact with the pupils, and parents may have the assurance that their children are under a good home influence.

The examinations evinced thorough work on the part of the teachers, and a more than ordinary degree of diligence on the part of the pupils. Messrs. Brown and Richards are entitled to the thanks of all friends of the School and College, for their earnestness and fidelity in their respective departments.

Patrons in the town and county, in fact throughout the Lutheran Church, should know, that in facilities for thorough instruction, or for good Christian influence, the Preparatory Department, under its present management, is inferior to no institution of the kind in the State. Under such management, the School in a short time must command the confidence and patronage of all friends of Education, and be what its founders designed it, a School of high grade, where young men might receive the best possible training for business or for College. ### NEW OXFORD BIBLE SOCIETY.

Among the various recently organized Bible Societies in Adams county, this is one of the first to publish a report of its anniversary exercises, and to lay before the Christian public of our county, throught the widely-read columns of the "Star and Sentinel," a statement of its operations during the year. This statement is exceedingly satisfactory to all true friends of the Bible Cause, exhibiting as it does, convincing proof of the fact that no one in that vicinity is to be left without the Sacred Scriptures who desires to possess them.

It is cheering to see, from this published account, how pleasantly evangelical Christians, of all denominations, have united in this good work. The Bible Society has often thus proved a bond of union among the followers of Christ, and, in their combined efforts to disseminate the divine word, those who have been comparative strangers to one another have been taught lessons of charity towards one another and made to feel that, with all their apparent differences, they were still "one in Christ Jesus."

We hope the example of our Oxford brethren will be followed by the other recently organized Bible Societies, and that we may soon have the pleasure of reading in the "Star and Sentinel" some account of their anniversary services and of their operations during the year.

A VISIT FROM ST. NICHOLAS.

BY CLEMENT C. MOORE.

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse;
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there;
The children were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of sugar plums danced in their heads;
When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter.
Away to the window I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutters, and threw up the sash.
The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow
Gave the lustre of mid-day to objects below;
When, what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer.
With a little old driver, so lively and quick,
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.
More rapid than eagles his coursers they came,
And he whistled and shouted and called them by name:
"Now, Dasher! now, Dancer! now, Prancer! and Vixen!
On, Comet! on, Cupid! on, Donder! and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch, to the top of the wall!
Now dash away! dash away! dash away, all!"
As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly,
When they meet with an obstacle mount to the sky,
So up to the house-tops the coursers they flew,
With the sleigh full of toys and St. Nicholas too;
And then in a twinkling I heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.
As I drew in my head and was turning around,
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound.
He was dressed all in fur from his head to his foot,
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot;
A bundle of toys he had flung on his back,
And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack.
His eyes, how they twinkled! his dimples, how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry!
His dear little mouth was drawn up like a bow,
And the beard of his chin was white as the snow;
The stump of a pipe he held tight in his teeth,
And the smoke it encircled his head like a wreath.
He had a broad face and a little round belly,
That shook when he laughed like a bowlfull of jelly;
He was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf,
And I laughed when I saw him in spite of myself.
A wink of his eye and a twist of his head
Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread.
He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work,
And filled all the stockings—then turned with a jerk,
And laying his finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose.
He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle—
But I heard him exclaim, as he drove out of sight,
"Merry Christmas to all, and to all a good-night!"

PERSONAL.—Dr. R. H. Longwell, son of Col. H. Longwell, of this place, has been elected Probate Judge of Colfax county in the territory of New Mexico, his majority being 315 in a total vote of 639. The Cimarron (New Mexico) News of Oct. 29 says:

The decisive majority by which Dr. R. H. LONGWELL was elected, is as flattering to that gentleman as it is creditable to the good sense of the people of our country. The election was not only a proof of the popular confidence reposed in DR. LONGWELL; it was also a rebuke to that spirit of intolerance which controlled the opposition to the Doctor. We rejoice that the result has secured for the county an official whose integrity and competence are a guarantee of a faithful and successful administration.

Farm Garden & Household.

RECIPES.

The following recipes we clip from our leading magazines:

COCOANUT CAKE.—One large cocoanut grated, three cups of sugar, four eggs, one cup of butter, one teaspoonful of soda, two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar.

CUP PUDDING.—Beat three ounces of butter to a cream, add to it two ounces of pounded sugar, stir in three ounces of flour, and then a pint of milk; put the mixture into buttered cups, and bake it twenty minutes.

COCOANUT BISCUIT.—Scrape off the skin carefully, grate the nut very fine, add half the weight of powdered sugar. Mix well together with white of egg, drop on wafer paper in small rough knobs the size of a walnut, and bake in a slack oven.

COCOANUT JUMBLES.—One pound of sugar, half a pound of butter, four eggs, one pound of flour, half a teaspoonful of soda, the milk of the nut. Just before baking stir in the grated cocoanut. Drop it on tins.

SOMETHING NICE.—Beat three eggs very light, stir them with one pint of milk, slice some bread, dip into the eggs and milk, fry to a nice brown, sprinkle powdered sugar and cinnamon on the top. This is a French treat.

LITTLE WHITE CAKES.—Half a pound of dry sugar, rub into it a very little sugar, one ounce of butter, one egg, and a spoonful of thin cream, a few caraway seed, and as much milk as will make it into a paste. Roll out thin, and bake for fifteen minutes on a tin.

LEMON CAKE.—One pound of flour, six ounces of butter, six ounces of moist sugar three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, three eggs, and the rind of a large lemon, or two small ones, grated fine; a little milk to make it the proper stiffness. Bake for one hour in a quick oven.

PUMPKIN PIES.—Mrs. S. Hannahs, Portage Co., O., " says: Pare the pumpkin, then grate it, and add sugar and ginger to taste, and milk enough to make it of the proper consistency; then line your pie tins with crust, put in your pumpkin, and bake in the ordinary way. After trying this once, no one will, I think, wish to go back to the old way of making pies of stewed pumpkin."

CREAM PUFFS.—One pint of water, one third of a pound of butter, three-quarters of a pound of flour, ten eggs; boil the water and butter together, and stir in the flour while boiling. When cool, add the eggs, well beaten, and a teaspoonful of soda; drop on tin sheets about the size of a dollar, and bake in a moderate oven fifteen minutes.

CREAM FOR THE PUFFS.—One cup of flour, two cups of sugar, four eggs, one quart of milk; beat the flour, sugar and eggs together, then stir with the milk while boiling, till it is of the consistency of thick cream; flavor with vanilla.—Make a small ring in each puff, and put in a spoonful of the cream.

RECIPE FOR A VERY FINE SPONGE CAKE.—The weight of four eggs in sugar, and the weight of two more in flour. Beat the whites of the six eggs to a stiff froth; stir the yolks and sugar to a frothy cream; put together, stir briskly, sift in the flour a little at a time and stir enough to get the flour in and no more. Put in a round cake tin with tube in the centre; bake in a quick oven. It rises very light.

All hygienists should know that sponge cake, to be good, must not be stirred at all after the flour is put in; it makes the cake very tough. No soda, no cream tartar.

IRISH GRIDDLE OR SLIM CAKES.—Rub two ounces and a half of butter into half a pound of flour with a little salt, make it into a stiff paste with a little milk, roll it out half an inch thick, and cut it into squares and rounds, or any shape you like. It will take half an hour to bake: it should be baked on a griddle over a stove, or in the oven with the door open.

FRENCH METHOD OF MAKING CURDS.—The French make their curds simply by allowing the milk to stand for a couple or three days without any preparation whatever. The second day the milk goes sour, the third it becomes curds with a rich cream on the top, and is then ready for eating with sugar. If allowed to stand longer than the time to solidify, the curds would go mouldy.

GINGERBREAD PUDDING.—Take a quarter of a pound of suet, flower, breadcrumbs, and molasses, a tablespoonful of sugar, and a tablespoonful of ginger. Mix, put into a mould, and boil for four hours. Fruit of lemon chips may be added if wished.

TO MAKE OLD KID GLOVES NEW.—Make a thick mucilage by boiling a handful of flax-seed; add a little dissolved soap; then when the mixture cools, with a piece of white flannel wipe the gloves, previously fitted to the hand; use only enough of the cleaner to take off the dirt, without wetting through the glove.

MOLASSES CANDY.—One teacupful of molasses, half a teacupful of any kind of sugar, a teaspoonful of vinegar, a piece of butter half the size of a nutmeg. Put the whole in a skillet on a hot fire, and boil exactly ten minutes, stirring all the time. Then set off to cool.—Pull it as soon as it is hard enough.

ALMOND CUSTARD.—Blanch and pound four ounces of sweet almonds and a few bitter ones. Boil them five minutes in a quart of milk, sweeten to your taste, and when blood warm stir in the beaten yolks of eight eggs, and the whites of four. Heat it and stir it till it thickens, then pour it into cups. Cut the reserved whites to a stiff broth, and put on the top.

REMOVING CORKS FROM BOTTLES.—Sometimes a cork is pushed down into the bottle or vial which it is desirable to remove. A very effectual way to do is to insert a strong twine in a loop and engage the cork in any direction most convenient. It can then be be withdrawn by a strong pull, the cork generally yielding sufficiently to pass through the neck.

TO CLEANSE PORK BARRELS, ETC.—Chemistry furnishes an agent in the permanganate of potassia, which fully meets this want. A pint of the permanganate of potassia, turned into the most nasty, filthy cider, beer or pork barrel, rinsed about a few times, will entirely decompose all fungoid growths and fermenting matter, and render the cask as sweet as those that are new. The only way to remove immediately the odor of carbolic acid from the hands is to immerse them in the liquid permanganate.

HUNTER'S PUDDING.—Mix together one pound of flour, one pound of finely chopped suet, one pound of currants, one pound of chopped raisins, four ounces of sugar, the outer rind of half a lemon grated, six berries of allspice finely powdered, and a quarter of a teaspoon full of salt; when well mingled, add four well beaten eggs, a glass of brandy, and one or two tablespoonfuls of milk to reduce all to a thick batter; boil in a cloth nine hours, and serve with brandy sauce. This pudding may be kept for six months after boiling, if closely tied up; it will be required to be boiled an hour when it is to be used.

DODGE'S PATENT

REAPER AND MOWER

AND SELF RAKER.

THIS machine has met with the most complete success. In every section where it has been introduced, it has taken precedence over those machines which have heretofore ranked as first-class. It is a perfect Self-Raker and a superior Mower.

A careful examination will convince any one of its superior merits over all others, in simplicity, strength and durability. As a self-raking Reaper it has no equal to our knowledge.

The Dodge rake is attached to no other machine in the United States, except to this machine.—Built by the DODGE & STEVENSON Manufacturing Co., Auburn, New York.

READ THE NOTICE OF THE COMPANY TO OUR AGENTS:

Having been informed that certain manufacturers in Ohio and elsewhere are building Reapers, with DODGE'S SELF-RAKE attached, we ask you to furnish us the names of all persons vending or purchasing such machines, as we have never licensed any person or persons to manufacture said SELF-RAKE, or any part thereof, and will prosecute to the full extent of the law all persons manufacturing, selling or using said Self-rake except of our own manufacture.

JOHN A. DODGE, President.

We have that confidence in this machine that we are willing to let those wanting a machine test it with any other machine they may wish, and keep the one that gives the most satisfaction.

Farmers wanting Droppers attached can be accommodated.

For the benefit of those wanting machines we should refer them to a few of those to whom we have sold, viz:

Medical.

MANHOOD

IN THE YOUNG AND RISING GENERATION

The vegetative powers of life are strong, but in a few years how often the pallid hue, the lack-lustre eye and emaciated form, and the impossibility of application to mental effort, show its baneful influence. It soon becomes evident to the observer that some depressing influence is checking the development of the body. Consumption is talked of, and perhaps the youth is removed from school and sent into the country. This is one of the worst movements. Removed from ordinary diversions of the ever-changing scene of the city, the powers of the body, too much enfeebled to give zest to healthful and rural exercise, thoughts are turned inwards upon themselves.

If the patient be a female, the approach of the menses is looked for with anxiety, as the first symptom in which Nature is to show her saving power in diffusing the circulation and visiting the cheek with the bloom of health. Alas! increase of appetite has grown by what it fed on; the energies of the system are prostrated, and the whole economy is deranged. The beautiful and wonderful period in which body and mind undergo so fascinating a change from child to woman, is looked for in vain: the parent's heart bleeds in anxiety, and fancies the grave but waiting for its victim.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU, for Weakness arising from excesses or early indiscretion, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, General Weakness, Horror of Death, Night Sweats, Cold Feet, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision, Langour, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System, Often Enormous Appetite with Dyspeptic Symptoms, Hot Hands, Flushing of the Body, Dryness of the Skin, Pallid Countenance and Eruptions on the Face, Pain in the Back, Heaviness of the Eyelids, Frequently Black Spots Flying before the Eyes, with Temporary Suffusion and Loss of Sight, Want of Attention, Great Mobility, Restlessness, with Horror of Society. Nothing is more desirable to such patients than Solitude, and nothing they more dread, for Fear of Themselves; no Repose of Manner, no Earnestness, no Speculation, but a hurried Transition from one question to another.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on—which this Medicine invariably removes—soon follow Loss of Power, Fatuity, and Epileptic Fits, in one of which the patient may expire.

During the Superintendence of Dr. Wilson at the Bloomingdale Asylum, this sad result occurred to two patients; reason had for a time left them, and both died of epilepsy. They were of both sexes, and about twenty years of age.

Who can say that these excesses are not frequently followed by those direful diseases Insanity and Consumption? The records of the Insane Asylums, and the melancholy deaths by Consumption, bear ample witness to the truth of these assertions. In Lunatic Asylums the most melancholy exhibition appears. The countenance is actually sodden and quite destitute—neither Mirth or Grief ever visits it. Should a sound of the voice occur, it is rarely articulate.

"With woeful measures wan Despair
Low sullen sounds their grief beguiled."

Whilst we regret the existence of the above diseases and symptoms, we are prepared to offer an invaluable gift of Chemistry for the removal of the consequences. HELMBOLD'S HIGHLY CONCENTRATED FLUID EXTRACT OF BUCHU. There is no tonic like it. It is an anchor of hope to the surgeon and patient, and this is a testimony of all who have used or prescribed it.

Sold by Druggists and Dealers everywhere.—Price $1.25 per bottle, or six bottles for $6.50. Delivered to any address. Describe symptoms in all communications,

A Great Medical Discovery

DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS.

Hundreds of thousands bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK,

Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and a LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all the poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Billious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the off-springs of Dyspepsia.

BILIOUS, REMITTENT and INTERMITTENT FEVER, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great Rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others with their vast tributaries, during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during the seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. There are always more or less obstructions of the liver, a weakness and irritable state of the stomach, and great torpor of the bowels, being clogged up with vitiated accumulations. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. WALKER'S Vinegar Bitters, as they will speedily remove the dark colored viscid matter with which the Bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs. The universal popularity of this valuable remedy in regions subject to miasmatic influences, is sufficient evidence of its power as a remedy in such cases.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

DR. SCHENCK

ADVISES CONSUMPTIVES TO GO TO FLORIDA IN WINTER.

Having for the last thirty-five years devoted my whole time and attention to the study of lung diseases and consumption, I feel that I understand fully the course that ought to be pursued to restore a tolerably bad case of diseased lungs to healthy soundness. The first and most important step is for the patient to avoid taking cold, and the best of all places on this continent for this purpose in winter, is Florida, well down in the State, where the temperature is regular, and not subject to such variations as in more Northern latitudes. Palatka is a point I can recommend. A good hotel is kept there by Peterman. Last winter I saw several persons there whose lungs had been badly diseased, but who, under the healing influence of the climate and my medicine, were getting well.

One hundred miles further down the river is a point which I would prefer to Palatka, as the temperature is more even and the air dry and bracing. Mellonville and Enterprise are located there. I should give a decided preference to Mellonville. It is two miles from river or lake, and it seems almost impossible to take cold there.—The tables in Florida might be better, and patients complain at times but that is a good sign, as it indicates a return of appetite, and when this is the case they generally increase in flesh, and the lungs must heal.

Jacksonville, Hibernia, Green Cove, and many other places in various parts of Florida, can be safely recommended to consumptives in winter. My reasons for saying so are that patients are less liable to take cold there than here, there is a less even temperature, and it is not necessary to say that where a consumptive person exposes himself to frequent colds he is certain to die shortly. Therefore my advice is, go well down into the State out of the reach of prevailing east winds and fogs. Jacksonville, or almost any other of the localities I have named, will benefit those who are troubled with a torpid liver, a disordered stomach, deranged bowels, sore throat or cough, but for those whose lungs are diseased a more southern point is earnestly recommended.

For fifteen years prior to 1869, I was professionally in New York, Boston, Baltimore and Philadelphia every week, where I saw and examined on an average five hundred patients a week. A practice so extensive, embracing every possible phase of lung disease, has enabled me to understand the disease fully, and hence, my caution in regard to taking cold. A person may take vast quantities of "Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills," and yet die if he does not avoid taking cold.

In Florida, nearly everybody is using Schenck's Mandrake Pills, for the climate is more likely to produce bilious habits than more northern latitudes. It is a well established fact that natives of Florida rarely die of consumption, especially those of the southern part. On the other hand, in New England, one-third, at least, of the population die of this terrible disease. In the Middle States it does not prevail so largely, still there are many thousands of cases there. What a vast percentage of life would be saved if consumptives were as easily alarmed in regard to taking fresh cold as they are about scarlet fever, small pox, &c. But they are not. They take what they term a little cold, which they are credulous enough to believe will wear off in a few days.—They pay no attention to it, and hence it lays the foundation for another and another still, until the lungs are diseased beyond all hope for cure.

My advice to persons whose lungs are affected even slightly is, to lay a stock of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Schenck's Mandrake Pills and go to Florida. I recommend these particular medicines because I am thoroughly acquainted with their action. I know that where they are used in strict accordance with my directions they will do the work that is required. This accomplished, nature will do the rest. The physician who prescribes for cold, cough or night-sweats, and then advises the patient to walk or ride out every day, will be sure to have a corpse on his hands before long.

My plan is to give my three medicines, in accordance with the printed directions, except in some cases where a freer use of the Mandrake Pills is necessary. My object is to give tone to the stomach—to get up a good appetite. It is always a good sign when a patient begins to grow hungry. I have hopes of such. With a relish for food and the gratification of that relish comes good blood, and with it more flesh, which is closely followed by a healing of the lungs. Then the cough loosens and abates, the creeping chills and clammy night-sweats no longer prostrate and annoy, and the patient gets well, provided he avoids taking cold.

Now there are many consumptives who have not the means to go to Florida. The question may be asked, is there no hope for such? Certainly there is. My advice to such is, and ever has been, to stay in a warm room during the winter, with a temperature of about seventy degrees, which should be kept regularly at that point, by means of a thermometer. Let such a patient take his exercise within the limits of the room by walking up and down as much as his strength will permit, in order to keep up a healthy circulation of the blood. I have cured thousands by this system, and can do so again. Consumption is as easily cured as any other disease if it is taken in time, and the proper kind of treatment is pursued. The fact stands undisputed on record that Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Mandrake Pills, and Seaweed Tonic have cured very many of what seemed to be hopeless cases of consumption. Go where you will, you will be almost certain to find some poor consumptive who has been rescued from the very jaws of death by their use.

So far as the Mandrake Pills are concerned, everybody should keep a supply of them on hand. They act on the liver better than calomel, and leave none of its hurtful effects behind. In fact they are excellent in all cases where a purgative medicine is required. If you have partaken too freely of fruit and diarrhoea ensues, a dose of the Mandrakes will cure you. If you are subject to sick headache, take a dose of the Mandrakes and they will relieve you in two hours. If you would obviate the effect of a change of water, or the too free indulgence in fruit, take one of the Mandrakes every night or every other night, and you may then drink water and eat watermelons, pears, apples, plums, peaches or corn, without the risk of being made sick by them. They will protect those who live in damp situations against chills and fevers. Try them. They are perfectly harmless. They can do you good only.

I have abandoned my professional visits to Boston and New York, but continue to see patients at my office, No. 15 N. SIXTH Street, Philadelphia, every Saturday, from 9 A. M., to 3 P. M.—Those who wish a thorough examination with the Respirometer will be charged five dollars. The Respirometer declares the exact condition of the lungs, and patients can readily learn whether they are curable or not. But I desire it distinctly understood that the value of my medicine depends entirely upon their being taken strictly according to directions.

In conclusion, I will say that when persons take my medicines and their systems are brought into a healthy condition thereby, they are not so liable to take cold, yet no one with diseased lungs can bear a sudden change of atmosphere without the liability of greater or less irritation of the bronchial tubes.

Full directions in all languages accompany my medicines, so explicit and clear that any one can use them without consulting me, and can be bought from any druggist.
